I'm a third-year business management major, while I do hope to use my degree in the future. My plan after graduation or next year is to get EMT certified as well as get my fire 1 where I will then apply for a fire department to become a firefighter. I do plan to most likely work on the side of being a firefighter and this is where the degree comes into play as I would like to start my own business on the side of being a firefighter.

I wouldn't say I'm the most proficient computer user, but I do have and use two computers. One is a MacBook that I use for school and another is a windows laptop I use for other applications and playing games on as I enjoy getting away from everything from time to time. I would say I have a good understanding on how they work and how they are different, but I could learn a lot more on both. My mac is where I use most software like word, excel, and every basic thing you would need for school. While on my work computer I use things like Prolaw as I work at a law firm here in town. On my windows computer I use things like CAD, photoshop, illustrator and other applications like those.

Now to get a little more into me, I was born and raised here in Reno, Nevada where I grew up and have lived ever since and really have no intention of leaving. Instate tuition and family are the reasons I've stayed here in town and went to UNR. Although I'm glad, I did as I think this campus is amazing and the experiences, I've had here been things I wouldn't trade the world for. I'm currently the president of a fraternity on campus called Sigma Phi Epsilon and plan on running for the position again as our chapter ran into a few issues with the university and our nationals but we are coming out of it stronger and better. I spend most of my time working, going to school or working in the fraternity but when I do spend time on other things I love to golf and play video games like I said before. I'm a very big preacher of work life balance. Making sure you can get your work, and everything important done while being able to balance the social life of a college student.
